This conference is going to conduct sessions on various fields of applied electronics, advanced physics, computer science & Biotechnology etc. It also anticipated widening the scope of research and fostering interdisciplinary research among teachers.

Twenty first century has bought a very fast changing mobile gadget, as the user gets used to this new comfort he also expects these gadgets to be lightning fast and do a wide variety of tasks. This makes the job of researchers, designers very complicated. In this conference we like to address the needs of users and find methods of meeting those.

“Green energy” has become like a mantra in the preset days. While everyone chants this mantra we as engineers have to find a way to make it real and effective. In this conference we will be exploring new areas to extend the use of clean and green power and also methods to make green power.
